

Analysis versus Discernment

Mohsen Paul Sarfarazi, Ph.D.

March 10, 2012

- Mankind is a creature of habit.
- We have been conditioned from almost the very incipient stage of our development to 'observe' the environment surrounding us and only use our brain to gather information, and ultimately take actions upon processing of this information.
- This is of course, true in more intelligent and responsible families.
- We are encouraged not to 'repeat' any mistakes, and upon experiencing a negative impulse exercise abstinence.
- Again, this is correct and often practiced among broods of more educated folks who do not show any defiant resistance as a result of any possible rebellious tendencies or 'unusually' different 'impulses.'
- Generally speaking, the idea behind 'sound' decision or response is not to be impulsive.
- All of us are brought up with a set of rather 'rigid' dogmas with the very same global component that necessitates as to 'not repeat mistakes,' as if the perception and 'reality' of 'mistake' or 'sound' response and action is set in the stone, NEVER to be altered.
- Similarly we are directed to the compulsion that only 'seeing is believing,' and anything else is not credible and to be regarded and treated as ridiculous.
- In essence, this is in concert with yet another manufactured and imposed idea that 'we are alone,' and conforms to the rather ignorant notion that 'mankind is the crown jewel of creation.'
- The latter example is only questionable in the context of the aforementioned reality or paradigm as it is more a fanciful fantasy of an ego-based postulate rather than a 'conscious' statement' arising from a totally aware knowledge of 'creation' and 'divinity.'

- To this extent we are doomed to linger in oblivion.
- We are fixated to be 'analytical,' yet we are not provided with adequate ammunition and data to be able to 'rationalize' and come up with a 'sound' reasoning regarding ALL THERE IS around us.
- This is the very impetus to condemn us to unawareness and diminished consciousness which is in direct conflict of the principle of FORWARD EVOLUTION and a primary purpose for existence.
- Many may strongly disagree with the latter statement by impulsively contend that 'life is not just about learning or education.' To this, the author responds: it is TRUE!
- Life is also about joy and experience. No doubt this appeals to what comes from WITHIN the contestant, the strong impulse of disagreement. In this respect there should not be any disparity as God decrees that we are created to have JOY. The author has strong faith in the principle of JOY, and furthermore, elaborates its connotation as to include DELIGHT, PLEASURE, BLISS, and even ECSTASY.
- Joy is required as to entice peace and fulfillment, which are two main precursors to creativity.
- Without happiness the most essential instigators for creativity namely as attention, intention, commitment, and eventual manifestation will be void of existence.
- It is happiness that is the incipient prerequisite for curiosity, imagination, and inspiration, which are three main products of 'attention.'
- Otherwise, the desire for self-satisfaction and resolution preoccupies and overwhelms the heart and the mind of the 'would- be- creator.'
- Without attention, there is no 'intent' or consideration. There are no possibilities for inspiration, ingenuity, and inventiveness to flourish within the context of intention.
- Without such required determination, creation is doomed not to be allowed, and thus there is no commitment and diligence for any possible manifestation of creation.

- In the absence of any such prerequisites as resonance for harmony and synchronicity for creation to finally take its place within the heart and mind of mankind, there will never be manifestation of any creation outside the physique of humanity.
- In essence, the above argument is consistent with the 'UNIVERSAL LAW OF ATTRACTION.'
- As to the inference that happiness is 'what life is about,' specifically and exclusively, the author firmly disagrees and further states that experience, exploration, strive for knowledge and enlightenment are the primary reasons for being.
- They, indeed, lead to joy, DELIGHT, PLEASURE, BLISS, and even ECSTASY and set humanity on a consistent path of awareness, consciousness, and evolution.
- And, what is more, this path is a spiral, upward, route to more consciousness, which, in turn, culminates in further joy and bliss.
- With reference to the dogma and erroneous belief that 'rationality' is the 'required and SUFFICIENT' condition for a sound reality, the author firmly differs the opinion.
- Once again, we are conditioned to have such a SINGULAR view about reality as if no other contender EVER exists or is possible for this mentality.
- The word SINGULARITY actually very well describes the concept at hand.
- For those of you who are mathematicians or have an exposure to continuum mechanics, physics, or quantum mechanics or even calculus, or geometry appreciate that SINGULARITY refers to a status that actually there is NO SOLUTION to the problem being considered. A black hole is considered as a point of SINGULARITY [although not true!]. An abrupt discontinuity in a continuum is a SINGULARITY. The field of stress at the very tip of a crack in a material represents a SINGULARITY. The domain constituting the intersection between two parallel lines is a SINGULARITY.
- Thus concept of 'Logic' or 'rationale,' specifically, as perceived by our 'limited' physical mind, and as analyzed by the brain through inclusion of our available data (or rather lack of it), is indeed SINGULAR in nature.

- It actually does not provide the correct solution for the perception of reality. The answer provided is not the solution.
- In contrast, considering the other possibility, the existence of intuition, it may be deduced even by the 'logical or rational' mind that intuition is not a product of duality. There are no contrasting or opposing solutions or possibilities to any phenomenon that may be considered. There are no 'buts.' There are no 'ifs.' Every solution inspired is unique unless it is reanalyzed by the brain to become muddled as to include a myriad of possibilities that are abundant, although not probable. And, even when the final candidates become transparent to the mind, there is ALWAYS the existence of that which is entirely opposite to the other solution already reached. This is the nature of duality. This is what drives the current reality.
- On the other hand, intuition, inherently immune to duality, has its source elsewhere. It is the product of guarded, sacred, Akashic records that either originates from the Almighty Himself (Herself), or is reviewed and endorsed by Her (Him), gathered after lifetimes of experience and evolution, and perfected after cycles and cycles of reiteration and refinement.
- This is, indeed, the reality to be trusted. To be revered, and to be adopted.
- There are no longer any errors in such deductions. There are no ambiguities in its application. It is from the light. It is bestowed upon us with unconditional love. It comes to us as a result of compassion.
- Conversely, it does not engage you in a battle of 'buts,' and 'ifs.' It is not premeditated.
- It is not a product of deviousness as to target self-indulgence by others. It does not incite mal-intent or similar subservience.
- It is not SINGULAR in character. It provides THE solution.
- It is no to be laughed at. It is not to be subject to ridicule.
- It is refined. It is a gift.
- The attention should be focused on its reception, its cultivation to manifest itself in active conscience. It is to be respected, and it is to be allowed to effect manifestation and successful harmonization with the outside world of physicality.

- Man's only challenge is to have a frequent communication with its source, which is archived within the soul, encased in a pocket of security we call 'heart.'
- The existence of the 'soul,' is to be delightedly acknowledged each and every time an inspiration, or intuition transpires, and the very essence of the 'soul,' referred to as the HIGHERSELF is to be consulted more and more so a constant stream of revelations are discovered.
- Through frequent and silent reflections with the soul concerted efforts should be expended as to engross intent in order to more and more get acquainted with the very presence of HIGHERSELF within.
- This, in turn, establishes a smooth path of familiarity and friendship culminating in a concrete track leading to mutual trust and understanding between the ethereal and the physique.
- With devoted continuity it soon becomes transparent that the physique is but a minuscule part of the ethereal; an agent of the totality to experience the outside and the physical to gather further data to enlighten the soul.
- The importance of essential close acquaintance of the physical and ethereal aspects of the mind cannot be over-emphasized as it is this mutual cooperation that affects awareness leading the physique to avoid redundant reputation.
- Furthermore, the intimacy of the physical with the ethereal invalidates or even prohibits the physique to subject, and eventually, cast itself into absurd indulgences and practices that may lead to degradation of the state of consciousness.
- The closeness of the physique to the soul safeguards against deceit and sham and keeps the totality within the warm, delightful, 'sound,' and comfort of the light and love.
- This is, indeed the 'comfort' that humanity should crave for.
- This is the 'sound' mind that mankind ought to strive for.
- Of course, the ideal, yet achievable paradigm one needs to aim for is the emergence of the physical to the ethereal mind.

- This is the natural outcome of sincere soul-searching, provided deep silent reflection is continued attentively, uncompromisingly, and assiduously.
- This particularly involves persistent and tireless dedication as it first seems hard to be able to break the barrier of contact, while the truth of the matter is that you are, indeed, always connected to your soul.
- Your HIGHERSELF always cares for you and is in constant monitoring of your progress. However, the very same principle of FREE WILL that applies to your ENTIRETY also pertinent to your physicality.
- After all, if the HIGHERSELF were to dictate every step you make, there would be no new experience. There would be no evolution.
- Never the less, the blending of the ethereal and physical mind can be in concert with both the principles of FREE WILL as well as FORWARD EVOLUTION. In fact, it will improve the outcome by safeguarding against BACKWARD EVOLUTION as well as protecting against any or excessive repetition of the same experience. At the same time it provides useful intuition for achieving more optimized consequences within a particular incarnation.
- It is clear that neither total FUSION nor complete FRAGMENTATION of the soul is feasible or, indeed, beneficial.
- In particular, when the physical and ethereal aspects of mind totally get fused together as to inherit the collective consciousness, there is virtually no need for a physical body. The totality could therefore be a spirit only. For this reason this component of the SELF, which in essence, is the entirety of existence is referred to as the 'HOLY SPIRIT' or 'HOLY GHOST.' Alternatively, it represents the highest aspect of SELF and so it is also referred to as the 'HIGHESTSELF.'
- This is indeed the attribute Jesus Christ received upon incarnation on Earth. Therefore, it is also referred to as the 'CHRIST CONSCIOUSNESS.' The term CHRIST comes from CRYSTAL or CHRYSO which signifies perfection without any defect or flaws. From an engineering point of view, it is when the substance (or entity) is in a totally ordered state of 'ORDER,' which in the absence of any flaws or defect is pristine and perfect with the longevity of everlasting or eternal.

- Therefore, the fragmentation nature of the soul into its three essential components of SLEF, HIGHERSELF, and the HIGHESTSELF becomes apparent. These are what our master Jesus referred to as the 'Father,' the 'SON,' and the 'Holy Ghost,' where the Father is God, the most perfect aspect of man, the Son is the originator's favorite Creation, the Man, who is also perceived as the Son (or Daughter) of the Creator in his (her) basic physical form, and the holy ghost is the ultimate metamorphosis form of the man in his (her) original divine form which is her (his) final destiny after resurrection to her(his) pure ethereal form. This is the TRINITY that Jesus spoke of, the SELF, the HIGHERSELF, and the HIGHESTSELF. He was to use himself as an example of what man is really about, benevolent, most compassionate, without EGO, capable of full unconditional love, and in complete Oneness with the Creator and ALL THERE IS. This paradigm, his manifestation on Earth, was to serve as an awakening call for mankind to really see who and what he (she) is, and to relieve her (him) from any burden of the influence of evil. The ultimate goal was for man to see his origin in divinity as to frown upon evil and stay in the warm, comfort, and tranquility of light. Unfortunately, the damages to the mankind's soul were too great. He (she) had already plunged into the pit of self-pity, low self-esteem, and, indeed, inferiority complex. The utter difference between the natural frequency of vibration of Jesus and mankind was so apart that they could not resonate in harmony and synchronization. Jesus's teachings and his legacy on Earth, however, opened a forum and a foundation for man to strive and search for the TRUTH of Himself (Herself), ALL OTHER THERE IS, and of course, the Creator. Unfortunately with devious interference of our captors, as well as bias, hypocritical and superstitious tendencies of those who attempted to document the TRUTH as told by Jesus, the reliance to the scripture leaves much to be desired. This is how religion has served our oppressors, to divide, suppress, undermine, and conquer us for all these years.
- So, what is it to be, Analysis, or discernment?

- Shall we continue to believe that we must only resort to our brain and to our rather limited 5-sensory-perception or shall we look WITHIN in a search of an alternative, perhaps a 6th sense to guide and enlighten us?
- If we choose the latter how do we qualify the analytical, the logical mind, to be the only and sufficient status or tool for setting our reality?
- How do we meet the condition of SUFFICIENCY?
- How do we explain 'luck?'
- What is exactly responsible for those moments of utter dread when we 'feel' hopeless, when we are terrified of failure, downfall, or even utter destruction, and suddenly the table turns?
- What is it in us that 'ticks' that we suddenly come up with an answer, a resolution, the required wisdom to pull ourselves out of the gutter?
- Are they all coincidental? Would it add to our COMFORT to believe that it is luck?
- Do we have guardian angel(s) looking over our shoulders, protecting us in our most moments of despair and helplessness?
- Could it be that this guardian angel resides within us?
- Could it actually be that this 'guardian angel' is in fact our HIGHERSELF?
- It seems 'logical' that the answer to the last two questions is a resounding YES.
- If we are in agreement with this 'rationale' or more elaborately 'NOTION,' then surely it is appropriate for us to try and understand the reality of HIGHERSELF and the constraints and mechanism under which it operates.
- Once we fully comprehend the complete and intricate details involved in the equation of our existence, coupled with the acquirement of full consciousness, as well all the complete knowledge of our surroundings through experiences gathering, we can then proclaim that we are fully AWARE of ourselves and of our surroundings.
- This is the destiny that the mankind and every other sentient being are heading for.
- Let's start by the totality man and its fragmentation to the components we have already spoke of. Let's say that mankind has a 'physique', a physical aspect more commonly referred to as body, and a 'soul,' which is his (her) ethereal characteristic. We have already referred to the ethereal feature, the soul, as the HIGHERSELF.

- To this extent, we have inferred that the HIGHERSELF is the WISE(ER) component of the TOTALITY; A significant component that is erudite and well-informed to be trusted and to be consulted for inspiration and acquisition of knowledge. It should now be further elaborated that soul or the HIGHERSELF is actually comparable to a library, comprised of an infinitely large amount of data to be accessed and to be utilized. First of all, it has a 'memory' of all the preceding incarnations and their relevant experience and knowledge. Furthermore, it is a member of a vast NETWORK of similar soul COLLECTIVE who constantly contribute to this cooperative and share information, wisdom, and knowledge with one another. Thus the capabilities of the HIGHERSELF are rather immeasurable. In this context, the physique, or physical mind which is privy to the awareness obtained during this current lifetime, may appropriately be referred to as simply 'SELF.' It is clear that height infers degree of awareness or consciousness, which, in turn, insinuates experience, deduction, and knowledge.
- Furthermore, mind fragmentation is undoubtedly essential for successful cerebral 'hunter-gatherer' operation of experience in 3D life, which entails the separation of the physical mind and the ethereal mind as to avoid complete fusion of the two. Otherwise, the paradigm of 3D reality ceases to exist. There would be no recycling and rebirth. There would be no distinct life times. There will be no diversity, otherwise triggered by different sets of circumstances within distinct lifetimes of experiences.
- Although complete fusion of the physical and ethereal minds is not possible in 3D, still certain emergence of the two is beneficial as described earlier. Therefore, even in a 3D life, meditation, and in particular, focused silent reflection is most advantageous and constructive. As was pointed out earlier, it leads to accelerated evolution and betterment of life for humanity or any other sentient being.

- So, it may be concluded that it is the heart that should be the center of attention and not the brain for the former is a product of cooperation and ONENESS while the latter is plagued further by DUALITY.
- Also, the former promotes love, trust, and understanding, while the latter encourages skepticism, disbelief, and conflict.
- It is not surprising that our oppressors have always reinforced and sustained a paradigm of 5-sensory perception and physical reality which is readily identifiable by the brain, with the primary and utter emphasis on sight.
- To this extend, it is perceived as essential, safe, as well as 'sufficient' to our suppressors to promote and fortify the idea that 'seeing is believing,' as well as 'out of sight, out of mind.'
- Anything beyond the veil of transparency is taboo and not to be trusted, for they are the powerful, they are the prestidigitators, the controllers of our reality.
