

Diversity versus Oneness

Mohsen Paul Sarfarazi, Ph.D.

March 2012

- So what is all the fuss about?
- Why everyone is so eager to be on this sphere of dark energy at this time?
- The souls who have incarnated on Earth at this point in time are regarded to be very privileged to be here now and to be a part of the Earth experience.
- The wondrous struggle many are undertaking to emerge from the darkness of mind control into the light of heart-centered existence is quite alarming.
- Why have these souls eagerly volunteered to be part of this event?
- Why do they seem to enjoy the challenges of life in Earth's 3rd dimension ensued under the seemingly intolerable circumstance of duality complicated further by the ostensibly unbearable condition of bondage?
- It is the fortunate attainment of soul growth that culminates in transitioning out of the dark surroundings of an early life to a future of full consciousness, tranquility, prosperity, and creational bliss.
- It is the richness of experience unmatched elsewhere in the universe through exposure to and tasting diversity.
- It is the opportunity to experience diversity of plant, animal, and human life as on no other planet.
- It is the chance of familiarity with a diversity of landscapes from mountains, canyons, gorges, hills, prairies, meadows, plains, deserts, oceans, lakes, rivers, falls, cascades, bushes, woods, forests, etc.
- It is living among countless types of plants, vegetation, flowers, etc.
- It is seeing green to brown, arid to lush, and fertile to barren.
- It is living in huge metropolitan cities, in a well-planned suburb or in a house in countryside, or on a farm or a ranch in the middle of nowhere.
- It is living among people in a highly populated area or living in areas from thin to highly unpopulated areas.

- It is dwelling in an apartment in a high-rise apartment or in a house on a ranch or farm consisting of acres and acres of land.
- It is living in a one story house, a duplex, a split level house, in a 3-story or higher multi-level house, or in a numerously diverse architected house.
- It is living in a cookie-cutter or a custom-built house.
- It is residing in a cottage, a trailer, or a boat-house.
- It is the opportunity to reside in any type of dwelling you care to live in where you can furnish and decorate it with infinite assortment of colors, fabrics, styles, patterns, and workmanships.
- It is the prospect of wearing any type of garment that you may desire:
Although men are perceived as wearing more simple-fashioned clothing, still one has the choice of following combinations:
 - Formal suits; business suits; business casuals; casuals; jeans; etc.
 - The materials used in tailoring a suit, jacket, trouser, or a coat may consist of various types of leather; wool; silk; cotton; bamboo; linen; or man-made fabrics such as polyester; Dacron; nylon; etc.
 - The pattern may be plain solid; textured; striped; checkered; grid patterned; chess-patterned; window-paned; plaid; gingham; 'poco-dotted; bird's eye; herringbone; etc.
 - Additionally, each may come in woven patterns of variety of shapes and sizes. To name a few, interlaced; basket-weaved; tone on tone; etc.
 - Trousers may be flat or pleated, cuffed or un-cuffed, looped or D-ringed, etc.
 - Jackets may be double breasted, single breasted, or traditional; have different shapes of lapel; various assortments of pockets or without pocket; with single, double, or no vents; high or regular shoulders; with different arrangement of buttons; etc.
 - All these can come with an infinite variety of colors, making a highly diverse collection of possible selections. A complete discussion of tailoring, fabrics, etc. is beyond the scope of his manuscript. Suffice it to say that one can dress up or down, with virtually infinite choice of possibilities. This is yet another example of endless diversity life on Earth offers. The diversity of colors, shapes, and patterns is an artistic exercise available to those with time, energy and taste to indulge and enjoy on this little beautiful planet of ours. It needs to be elaborated that the range of choices for women's garments are absolutely endless since there is virtually no limitations that may be employed on the type of styles, combinations of colors and fabrics for female clothing. The only possible limitation that may exist in female fashion on planet Earth may only originate from the extent of imagination and artistic visualization of the garment designer. In other words, for female fashion 'sky is the limit.'

- Another source of diversity stemming from the same sense of (needless) indulgence is the choice of transportation used on our planet.
- From simple 2-wheeled bicycle or motorcycles and 3-wheeled tricycles, to 'planes-trains-and automobiles, there is a wide variety of designs and colors that may be selected from. The most popular mode of transportation is of course, automobiles which may be personalized to suit a wide variety of group tastes and choices. Of the most popular types of automobiles are 'sport cars,' 'muscle cars,' and 'convertibles.' There are extremely interesting variety of designs, shapes, and sizes which are often restored to their full originality and are kept as works of arts and memorabilia. Again, the diversity of all motorcars built to date, from the regular sedan to coupe to convertible to T-top to grand turismo (GT) to grand turismo spyder (GTS) to grand turismo berlietta (GTB) to barchetta to truck to extended cab to SUV to van to conversion van to a host of other newly developed categories, all are quite notable. Not to mention that each has come with a host of different designs comprising of a slew of different colors, shapes, and sizes with diversity of ergonomic interiors.
- Man's fascination with a diversity of motorcars is itself fascinating and may prove to become the most prominent singular idiosyncrasy in the future chronicles of our universe.
- Another captivating matter worthy of securing its own place in the future archives of universe is the subject of culinary art which provides for a delightful experience unlike other, consuming a wide diversity of food based upon distinctly different cuisine from around the Earth's globe. The opportunity to taste and enjoy such a diverse combination of edible food is unparalleled with any other single planet in the universe.

- Not only Each region has its own native ingredients for preparing food the methods of combining these components as well as the cooking methods are as diverse as one could feasibly imagine.
- Furthermore, there is the advent of such specialized food types as pickles, consommés, jams, herbs, and spices which add an incredibly delicious taste to the overall product to be enjoyed.
- Although alcoholic, there is also such an unbelievable diversity of 'wines' prepared from a wide variety of grapes and other fruits with end products that may be appreciated by the most discerning mind or heart, and unseen elsewhere in the universe.
- The list of surprises goes on and on. Suffice it to say, there is nothing approaching this diversity of culinary delights anywhere in the universe.
- We now understand that all the constituents making such culinary enchantment had actually been brought to Earth from elsewhere.
- This is the grand experiment for the universe.
- Plants were brought from afar, animals were contributed from other planets, and humans came from distinct star systems.
- It is the richness of life on Earth that overwhelms most anyone who is accustomed to less.
- Due to the outpouring of the light energies on the planet, Earth is changing.
- Earth is repairing the abuses to her land, water, and air that were imposed on her by ignorant, self-serving, and apathetic humans.
- On the other hand, we are changing much more than Earth is.
- We are ascending to a lighter density.
- As we ascend, our relationship to Earth will be changing as we begin to see her through the eyes of those in a lighter density.
- We will see Earth and each other from our hearts rather than our minds.
- At lighter densities generally we will function as members of a collective.
- Due to our totally open telepathy, we will share the same mind, share the same visions, and share the same opinions.
- Human transformation is as diverse as the planet upon which it is taking place.

- No human comprehends the things that are occurring in his or her surroundings in the same fashion.
- No one appreciates the events that are happening to him or her as an individual or as a collective in the same manner.
- It is quite a display to observe an entire race in which very few, if any, have the same thoughts, believe in the same way, or realize the same vision.
- The numerous energies that are impinging on Earth do not have the same effect with regard to diversity.
- The original plan was to integrate the life forms that were brought to our planet to achieve a fundamentally new race of humans.
- However, instead of attaining a new race of integrated humans, our galactic brothers and sisters (e.g., the Andromedans) are now compelled to be satisfied in achieving diversity within the context of Oneness.
- It remains to be seen what happens with respect to diversity and Oneness when telepathy becomes the standard of communication among the ascended light body human inhabitants of the transitioned Earth.
- At this point the ascending humans of Earth are envisaged as the zenith of the diverse facets of our universe.
- Earth is a focal point of this diversity.
- And all of this is occurring on a single planet, not among planets of a star system, nor on an entire galaxy.
- Earth currently represents a reflecting point of diversity for an entire universe.
- This is another reason that so many members of the Galactic Federation are currently here to observe the marvel of our transformation.
- There are the lightworkers who are awake to appreciate the larger picture.
- Even among the awakened who appreciate the grander picture and the universality aspect of our ascension there is almost no consistency in the manner it is visualized, comprehended and viewed.
- Yet still, there is a unifying fiber of approval and love that runs through and holds this diversity together.
- Each of us, the awakening humans and lightworkers, is reflecting back to Creator our experiences, insights, and love from many diverse perspectives.

- This realization of oneness in the presence of diversity is a crowning achievement that heralds the trumpet of success and a signal that now all will within creation.
- This indicates that all that is happening on Earth signals to a grand turning point for this and all other universes.
- Now in place of an infinite expansion, there will commence a contraction until all are One with the Creator.
- We are now reaching the pinnacle of this drama as indicated before.
- Earth changes are nearing their climax.
- There is a transmutation of fear, anger, greed, and all sources of darkness that consume the light energy within the human hosts; no longer these shall be allowed or accommodated.
- What a wonderful experience to be a part of this!
- It is now clear as to why some of the lightworkers and recent incarnates insisted so profusely on being here for this moment to assist and be a part of this transition.
- Only when one comprehends the diversity on Earth can one see duality expressed in so many different ways.
- There are those who rape the planet, along with their fellow humans, for their own gain.
- In contrast there are those who genuinely love Earth, honor her for the bounty that she provides, and love their fellow man.
- It is the tyrant and his slaves.
- It is the dominant husband and the subservient wife.
- It is the super wealthy and the poor.
- It is the master of the house and the housekeeper.
- It is those who feel superior because they have wealth or power versus those who feel powerless because they have been raised to respect authority rather than be true to themselves.
- It is the diversity of the way in which domination expresses itself that is so interesting.

- It is the transformation of individual humans, against Earth's diverse background that is intriguing.
- In the higher realms everything is fluid. There are no clear delineations as there are in the lower densities. In the lighter realms communications are not spoken, pictures and concepts are transmitted and truth is known not merely believed. Oneness and truth are easily achieved.
- In contrast, in the lower vibrations, in the arena of denser form, everything is rigid and truth is relative.
- Whether we appreciate it or not, we are in Oneness. We are One with every other human of Earth. We are One with Earth, with her animals, plants, insects, and rocks and all forms on inanimate objects. We are One with the rest of this universe, and we are One with other universes. Most importantly, we are also one with the Creator. Whether we appreciate it or not, awakened or in slumber, of very high consciousness or not, in the dense or light realm, vibrating at fine, high, frequencies in a light body, or slumbering in coarse low frequencies in a heavy body we are at one with ALL. However, in the former the distinction between ethereal and physical body is not pronounced while in the lower dimension the ethereal is trapped in a dense cage and there is separation between man and God, between recluse and the rest of cosmos. It is our challenge to reach within and strive to emerge and connect with the ethereal, which is our HIGHSELF, our soul, to remain in touch with ourselves and with the rest of the Omniverse while living in our dense bodies exploring, experiencing, and learning from the diversity of our immediate environment immersed in duality. In this respect, it is clear that there is no ambiguity between oneness and the diversity we are currently experiencing.
